7. From 14 December 1953 to 21 January 1954, the KVP barracks southwest of the Adlershof elevated railroad station still quartered an estimated 1,000 to 1,500 men wearing red service color. [redacted] 15 to 20 trucks each carrying about 20 enlisted men armed with rifles daily left the installation toward Berlin. There was no training activity in the barracks area. Source noticed individual trucks carrying enlisted men equipped with rifles, submachine guns and, occasionally, light machine guns daily driving to Gruenau and believed that combat training was held there. On 17 December 1953, six trucks [redacted] proceeded to the Hugelheim area where a practice was held.
